AIA Florida Newsletter for emerging architects

vol 2010, issue november

Dear Michele,

Each month, AIA Florida's goal is to provide all of Florida's emerging and young architects with the most up-to-date news about what matters most.

Assoc. AIA Dues...Paying for the First Time

Graduates are entitled to 18 months of free associate membership with AIA. After the 18 months, AIA offers a dues payment plan to allow you to maintain membership without breaking the bank. Maintaining membership is actually cheaper than letting your membership lapse and rejoining later.

And, remember, membership comes with an array of benefits, including cheaper study group fees and free events!

Please contact memberservices@aia.org for more information on membership and the dues payment plan.

NCARB Events this Month

As reported last month, NCARB will be traveling to Florida to visit several AIA components and the schools of architecture at the University of South Florida, the University of Florida, and Florida A&M University. NCARB's IDP Manager Martin Smith, AIA, NCARB, LEED Green Associate will be presenting to these schools and other AIA components over the next two weeks.

Licensure & Mentorship

Over the last few weeks, AIA's Interim CEO Paul Welch, Hon. AIA, has blogged about his view of licensure and mentorship as it relates to young architects. From his mentorship segment he says, "This I know for sure: emerging professionals will soon be running firms and the AIA. They'll be the ones making decisions and making architecture happen. Perhaps it's time to listen to them."
