Background

Jerry Lominack has over 50 years of extensive experience in the practice of architecture. Over the course of his tenure, Jerry has been involved in literally hundreds of projects in Savannah and other communities. His range of project experience varies greatly, with a large number of local and federal government projects, education buildings, large scale administrative offices, multi-family housing, custom single-family housing, institutional, public work, commercial and historic preservation projects. Many of his projects have received design awards from AIA, Historic Savannah Foundation, the Georgia Trust, and other organizations.

Jerry actively participates in the design and management of projects as well as, the overall management of the firm. He is a frequent design critic at the Savannah College of Art and Design, regularly serving as a topic advisor to thesis students and as a mentor to architectural interns.

A 55 year resident of Savannah's Landmark Historic District, Jerry has operated an architectural practice there for over 50 years, the first five as a partner in another firm, 27 years as Lominack Associates Architects, and now as a partner in Lominack Kolman Smith Architects.
