Lisa O'Donnell Graduates from Professional Association Leadership Program

Tallahassee, FL – The Florida Association of the American Institute of Architects has announced that Lisa J. O'Donnell has graduated from the 2009/2010 Tallahassee Society of Association Executives (TSAE) Professional Association Leadership (PAL) program. This six month program is designed to educate and prepare association managers for leadership positions within the association and in the community. Classes focus on the key areas within association management and are facilitated by leaders from the TSAE community: membership, meetings, communications, management, and advocacy.

Lisa O'Donnell has worked at AIA Florida since April 2007, and currently serves as the Education & Outreach Manager. In this role, Lisa manages outreach efforts to high school students, university architecture students, interns and young architects. She has successfully organized several programs including an Emerging Professionals Conference and a state-wide Intern Development Program, geared to help interns around the state of Florida better understand the path to licensure.

The Florida Association of the American Institute of Architects, headquartered in Tallahassee, represents the interests of more than 3,700 members in Florida. Members adhere to a code of ethics and professional conduct that assures the client, the public, and colleagues of an AIA-member architect's dedication to the highest standards in professional practice.
